Finishing Touch

Did you know that lighting brand Regina Andrew Detroit also makes accessories? From small sculptures to functional pieces, like this vase, there are so many choices that will make styling a breeze. $300; reginaandrew.com

A Handy Upgrade

I believe the things we use every day should get the most attention. Emtek's beautiful door hardware is a subtle yet wildly impactful way to upgrade a room. A door handle is something you touch countless times a day...shouldn't it bring you joy? entek.com

Put a Cork in It

Did you know that cork is rapidly renewable, carbon positive, and completely biodegradable? Bainbridge Island-based design studio Grain is exploring this material in their new furniture collection. It's surprisingly soft, remarkably durable, and adds a stylish dose of texture. $3,975; graindesign.com

Cheers, Babe!

Material, the AAPI-founded direct-to-consumer kitchen brand, has a new line of glassware I love. It's hand-blown but dishwasher safe and comes in a few different colors. I'm crushing on Malachite, which is a soft green and has a chic '70s vibe. materialkitchen.com

The Joy of Hosting

Egypt-born and New York-based artist Laila Gohar has a new collection of tableware and kitchen accessories with HAY! It's called 'Sobremesa,' which is the Spanish tradition of "relaxing and enjoying idle moments, and each other's company at the end of the meal." BRB—inviting all my friends over for a fabulous dinner party. us.hay.com

Scrub-a-Dub-Dub

If you've got a lot of bling, you need to know about Juli. It's a sonic brush cleaning system that safely cleans your diamonds and other jewelry. Their lab-developed cleanser takes care of stubborn deposits so your prized pieces can sparkle again. $160; julibrush.com
